WINTER WILDLIFE

Rocky Mountain Elk are a common resident of Spring Creek Ranch and seem to be spotted most often along the steep road climbing up the butte. Thousands of elk can be seen during winter months from the ridgeline of the butte as the Spring Creek property sits directly adjacent to the National Elk Refuge; which hosts the largest population of elk in the world!

NATURALIST TIP

Jackson is fortunate to be home to an abundance of wildlife. Please keep yourself as well as the animals safe and comfortable by abiding by the distance diagram below.

WINTER DRIVING

Our roads are frequently covered with ice or hard-packed snow, and winter storms create white-out driving conditions. To stay as safe as possible, follow these precautions:

- Drive below the speed limit as conditions warrant
- Watch for wildlife on the roadway

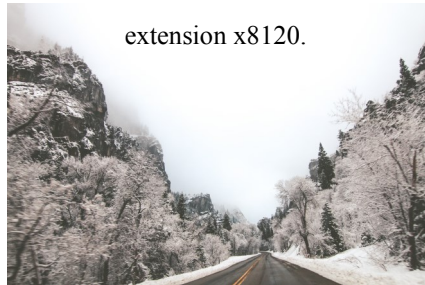

- Snowstorms can occur at any time; be prepared for changing weather conditions
- Roads may close at any time for visitor safety
- Always wear your seat belt
